JOGES

Some positive notes from JOGES. With the Social Distancing less kids are getting sick. Kids seem to be participating in art class more than last year. Teachers are planning on starting tutoring in November. With the bus routes being so long it will take some creative scheduling and transportation to get kids home after tutoring. It's been a challenging start to the school year but most students are working hard and coming to school everyday.

ZLES

Ms. Daub has started after school tutoring for some students at ZLES. The students at ZLES have been really good with the mask mandates. Most students are keeping their masks on with very little complaining. Going into this year the younger students were expected to be the toughest group to keep their masks on.

GMSHS

With all the tragedy in the village the high school's attendance has remained better than we expected. Losing someone from our staff that was a part of the grizzly family was hard on a lot of staff and students. The high school students had their own memorial send off for our recently passed staff member. With the many different distractions from academics has made it tougher than normal for the GMSHS staff and students.
